INTRODUCTORY NOTE

Canadian history is to-day attracting wider attention than ever before, both in the Dominion and in other countries. Not only as a matter of general interest, but also as a subject of university instruction, it has begun, in the past few years, to come into its own, especially in Canada itself and in the United States. This new and rapidly growing recognition of its value is due in part to an awakening realization of its importance and interest as the story of a people's appropriation and organization of half a continent, but it is also due in great measure to another fact. Canada's external role, in the counsels of the British Commonwealth and in the realm of international politics, has recently drawn wide notice to the unique significance of the Dominion's place in the political world of to-day, a significance which can only be adequately understood through the study of Canadian history. One finds, too, that such a study illumines not only the present situation but also to a high degree many phases of modern history, particularly the history of the British Empire and of the United States. Yet merely to treat it incidentally in connection with one or the other of these subjects proves less satisfactory even for such a secondary purpose than to take it up as a distinct course of study with the central theme Canada itself.

While, however, the subject has come to deserve a place of its own in the university curriculum, a general difficulty in the way of giving it due attention has been the relatively unorganized state of the literature upon it from the teaching point of view. On the strictly constitutional side this is no longer wholly the case, but it is not as a merely constitutional study that the field is most rewarding. The constitutional phase is highly important and interesting, but only the student with a generous background in the field is prepared to handle satisfactorily that phase by itself. Certainly the most profitable introduction to Canadian history is from the wider angle. The literature available for such a wider study is extensive, but hitherto the paths through it have hardly been charted.

This volume is an attempt to map the subject along simple but fairly comprehensive lines and to blaze trails through the more accessible material, secondary and source. It is the outgrowth of five years' experience with a general course on the history of Canada at Stanford University. Each year there was placed in the students' hands a mimeographed syllabus with references to reading. Revised and expanded season by season, the whole has now been again thoroughly revised and considerably enlarged in the hope that it will prove an effective aid to other teachers and students taking up Canadian history as a classroom subject and also to persons interested in exploring individually this fascinating and rewarding field of study. The writer has refrained from any attempt to make the book exhaustive, since that would defeat its purpose, which is rather, in the outline to supply a convenient topical guide to the main paths of development, and in the references to point the way to a selected assortment of reasonably accessible material. By the time one has become well acquainted with the works referred to herein he will hardly need guidance of the sort which this little book is intended to give.

In the outline it will be noticed that the topical divisions are such as the subject-matter naturally suggests and that the writer has not striven to divide the material into arbitrary sections of equal length or equal importance. Each teacher who uses the syllabus will wish to distribute the classroom emphasis in accordance with his own preferences. Nor has the writer tried to be superficially consistent in the degree to which the several topics of the syllabus are elaborated. Where his experience has suggested to him the desirability of elaborating the analysis of a particular topic beyond that of others he has done so, while on the contrary in some cases a more skeletal treatment than usual has seemed all that was needed in view of the nature of the topic, the importance to be attached to it in relation to the general subject, or the sort of material available upon it.

In the selection of reading references availability has been a criterion as well as usefulness. Most of the works listed are either in print or readily obtainable from second-hand book-sellers. A generous proportion of them will be found in any good library specializing at all in the field of Canadiana. In order to facilitate the building up of a working library on Canadian history, whether a few volumes or a comprehensive collection, the reading references attached to the several topics of the syllabus in Part Two are supplemented by providing in Part One classified lists of books and other printed materials for reading and study. The last of these lists, that of bibliographies, has been made as complete as possible, that it may point the collector's way to materials beyond the scope of this book. Also for each work mentioned herein the title of the series to which it belongs is added, or the place and date of its publication are given, at its first mention. The Index of Authors points the way to such first mention of each work.

It is hoped that the lists in Part One, by virtue of their classification, supplemented in many instances by critical comment, will furnish a more satisfactory means of indicating the relative value of many of the works cited in the later references than would be given by a mere mechanical system of asterisks. It should be added that in general in each group of references attached to the topical outline the items are placed approximately in the order of their convenient use, passing from the more general or briefer to the more specialized or detailed.

The criterion of availability has determined that the citations of material dealing with French Canada are chiefly such as will be readily accessible to English-speaking students. It has hardly seemed appropriate to tap the large literature in French save for certain of the most noteworthy contributions such as those of Garneau and Chapais and a few outstanding collections of documents. But it is hoped that nevertheless the student will gain a due understanding of the important role which French Canadians and French Canada have played in the whole history of British North America and the Dominion of Canada.

It should be said that for the period before the formation of the Dominion in 1867 the syllabus covers not merely the old, much smaller Canada, but the whole of New France and of British North America so far as those regions are now comprised in the great Dominion, and in addition Newfoundland, the oldest colony in British North America although it prides itself to-day on its separate dominionhood.

My obligations to others, incurred in the preparation of a volume such as this, are necessarily manifold. Inevitable indebtedness to many earlier writers I would here recognize in the only feasible way by recording in a general manner my sense of its greatness. I would express also my gratitude to those by whose personal encouragement, kindly criticism, constructive suggestion, and technical assistance, the completion of the work has been sped. It is the better for their interest. To name them all is impossible, but I cannot refrain from recording individually my obligation to a few. Professor William Bennett Munro of Harvard University first advised and encouraged me to elaborate my Stanford syllabus for publication. Among the many who have contributed helpful suggestions in matters of detail, obligation is greatest to Professor Milledge L. Bonham, Jr., of Hamilton College, and Professor George M. Wrong, of the University of Toronto. At the libraries in which much of the task has been performed I have uniformly received kindly assistance, but indebtedness in that regard is specially extensive to members of the staffs of the Toronto Public Library and the Canadian Archives at Ottawa. Mr. John Aseltine, for some time my assistant at Stanford University, rendered valuable help in the collation of references.

PART ONE

CLASSIFIED LISTS OF BOOKS AND OTHER PRINTED MATERIALS FOR THE READING AND STUDY OF CANADIAN HISTORY

A. A SELECTED LIST OF BRIEF GENERAL HISTORI- CAL WORKS AND MONOGRAPHS

1. BRIEF GENERAL HISTORIES

Lucas, Sir C. P. ed. Historical Geography of the British Colonies. Oxford, various years. Vol. V, comprising the following four parts bound separately:

Lucas, Sir C. P. Canada; Part I, Historical, to 1763. 2d ed. 1916.

Egerton, H. E. Canada; Part II, Historical, 1763-1921. 3d ed. 1923.

Rogers, J. D. Canada; Part III, Geographical. 1911.

————— Newfoundland. 1911.

This group of books furnishes a convenient, comprehensive manual of facts clearly presented.

Munro, W. B. Crusaders of New France.

Wrong, G. M. The Conquest of New France.

Skelton, O. D. The Canadian Dominion.

These three volumes of The Chronicles of America, New Haven, 1918-21, comprise a popular but well written and scholarly sketch, though disproportionately brief for the period since the British conquest.

Bourinot, Sir J. G. Canada under British Rule, 1760-1905. Rev. ed. London, 1922.

A convenient compact manual.

Bryce, G. A Short History of the Canadian People. Rev. ed. Toronto, 1914.

Fuller than Bourinot's volume.

Grant, W. L. History of Canada. Toronto, 1914.

Intended originally for high school use, it is an admirable sketch of the subject in brief compass.

Munro, W. B. Canada and British North America. (Lee, G. C., ed. History of North America. 20 vols. Philadelphia, [c1903-c07], vol. XI.)

A convenient survey.

Roberts, C. G. D. History of Canada. Rev. ed. Boston, 1918.

The point of view reflects the influence of the United Empire Loyalist tradition.

2. HISTORIES AND BIOGRAPHIES DEALING WITH SUCCESSIVE PERIODS, ARRANGED CHRONOLOGICALLY

Colby, C. W. Canadian Types of the Old Regime, 1608-1698. New York, 1910.

A group of illuminating studies in biographical form.

Edgar, P., ed. Romance of Canadian History, edited from the Writings of Francis Parkman. Toronto, 1917.

The American edition of this convenient compilation is entitled: The Struggle for a Continent. Boston, 1916.

Lucas, Sir C. P. A History of Canada, 1763-1812. Oxford, 1909.

————— The Canadian War of 1812. Oxford, 1906.

————— ed. Lord Durham's Report on the Affairs of British North America. 3 vols. Oxford, 1912.

The most useful edition of the Report, the text of which is vol. II. Vol. I comprises an historical introduction and study. Vol. III contains appendices to the Report.

New, C. R. Life of Lord Durham (In Preparation).

Bradshaw, F. Self-Government in Canada and How It Was Achieved: the Story of Lord Durham's Report. London, 1903.

Morison, J. L. British Supremacy and Canadian Self-Government, 1839-1854. Glasgow, 1919.
An illuminating essay upon a critical period.

Trotter, R. G. Canadian Federation: Its Origins and Achievement; a Study in Nation Building. Toronto and London, 1924.
Deals not only with the internal political story but also with economic and external factors.

Pope, Sir J. Memoirs of the Rt. Hon. Sir John Alexander Macdonald, G.C.B., First Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada. 2 vols. Ottawa, 1894.
The official biography. Very useful.

Wallace, W. S. Sir John Macdonald. (Canadian Statesmen Series). Toronto, 1924.
Brief and readable.

Skelton, O. D. Life and Letters of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. 2 vols. Toronto, 1921.
The official biography. Like Pope's Macdonald, it tells the story of the times as well as the life of its hero.

Willison, Sir J. S. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal Party: a Political History. 2 vols. Toronto, 1903.
Important and illuminating for the period which it covers. To be re-published with additional chapters in the revised Makers of Canada series.

3. WORKS UPON THE CONSTITUTION AND ITS HISTORY

Borden, Sir R. L. Canadian Constitutional Studies. Toronto, 1922.
Public lectures delivered at the University of Toronto. Particularly important for war-time and post-war developments.

- Kennedy, W. P. M. The Constitution of Canada: an Introduction to Its Development and Law. Oxford, 1922.
Interestingly written and the best presentation of its subject though not always comprehensive. With it may conveniently be used the same author's volume of documents listed below under "Sources."
- Munro, J. E. C. The Constitution of Canada. Cambridge, 1889.
A formal analysis and description of the Canadian frame of government.
- Porritt, E. Evolution of the Dominion of Canada; its Government and Its Politics. New York, 1918.
A useful account of the working of dominion and provincial governments. The historical chapters are not entirely accurate.
- Riddell, W. R. The Constitution of Canada in Its History and Practical Working. New Haven, 1917.
A popular and suggestive survey by a justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario, in the form of lectures delivered upon the Dodge Foundation at Yale University.

4. MISCELLANEOUS WORKS

- Bracq, J. C. The Evolution of French Canada. New York, 1924.
Brings together much useful material on French Canada, particularly as to its present characteristics and its cultural development, though somewhat lacking discrimination in the use of sources and marked by a strong but obvious bias.
- Burpee, L. J. The Search for the Western Sea: the Story of the Exploration of North-Western America. London, 1908.
- Skelton, Isabel. The Backwoodswoman: a Chronicle of Pioneer Home Life in Upper and Lower Canada. Toronto, 1924.
- Smith, W. History of the Post Office in British North America. Cambridge, 1920.
Important not only for the history of communications before Confederation, but also for the relation of the post office to constitutional development.

Logan, J. D. and French, D. G. Highways of Canadian Literature. Toronto, 1924.

An orderly survey of the development of English-Canadian literature, in its relation to the life of the people.

MacMechan, A. Headwaters of Canadian Literature. Toronto, 1924.

Less intensive than the preceding, but deals with French-Canadian literature as well as English-Canadian.

Bolton, H. E. and Marshall, T. M. The Colonization of North America, 1492-1783. New York, 1920.

Robinson, H. The Development of the British Empire. Boston, 1922.

Williamson, J. A. The Expansion of the British Empire. London, 1924.

These three works are particularly useful for orienting the subject with the history of other parts of the world.

B. IMPORTANT SECONDARY SERIES AND SETS BY CO-OPERATIVE GROUPS OF AUTHORS

Individual works in these series are cited in the reading references in the body of this book.

Scott, D. C., Edgar, P., and LeSueur, W. D., eds. Makers of Canada. 21 vols. Toronto, 1906-1911.

Sometimes bound as 11 volumes. The last volume is a handy index and dictionary of Canadian history. The first volume of a "New Series" appeared in 1923. Since that time the Oxford University Press, Canadian Branch, has acquired the rights to the series, and a new and revised edition of the whole is in course of preparation under the general editorship of Principal W. L. Grant.

Shortt, A. and Doughty, A. G., eds. Canada and Its Provinces. 23 vols. Toronto, 1914 (vol. XXIII, Index, 1917).

Exhaustive and generally authoritative.

Wrong, G. M. and Langton, H. H., eds. Chronicles of Canada. 32 vols. Toronto, 1914-1916.

Small volumes, well written and generally scholarly.

These three sets are invaluable, comprising in themselves an admirable library of Canadian history. The publishers of all of them have hitherto refused to sell them except as complete sets.

Wallace, W. S., ed. Canadian Men of Action. Toronto, 1924- .

Canadian Statesmen. Toronto, 1924- .

The volumes in these two series are comparable in manner and intention to the similar English series.

Pierce, L. A. and Morin, V., eds. Makers of Canadian Literature. Toronto, 1924, etc.

Forty-one attractive little volumes are projected. Several deal with the literary backgrounds of different sections of the country; one is to be a dictionary of Canadian literature; and a volume is devoted to each of a group of outstanding figures in the literary history of both English and French-speaking Canada, comprising in each instance a biographical sketch, a critical estimate, and an anthology from the writings of the author in question.

Hart, A. B., ed. The American Nation: a History from Original Sources, by Associated Scholars. 26 vols. New York, [1904-18].

Johnson, A., ed. Chronicles of America. 50 vols. New Haven, 1918-21.

A series modelled upon the Chronicles of Canada, though somewhat more extensive.

Winsor, J., ed. Narrative and Critical History of America. 8 vols. Boston, [c1884]-89.

Contains much bibliographical lore and many instructive illustrations, particularly reproductions of old maps.

Encyclopaedia Britannica. Vols. I-XXIX, 11th ed., 1911; vols. XXX-XXXII, 12th ed., 1922.

For list of pertinent articles in vols. I-XXIX consult the index volume, pp. 909, 924.

Hopkins, J. C., ed. Canada; an Encyclopaedia of the Country. 6 vols. Toronto, 1898-99.

Contains much useful material.

C. EXTENSIVE HISTORIES BY SINGLE AUTHORS

Chapais, T. Cours d'histoire du Canada. 4 vols., (1760-1841). Quebec, 1919-23.

Christie, R. History of the Late Province of Lower Canada, Parliamentary and Political, from the Commencement to the Close of Its Existence as a Separate Province. 6 vols. Quebec, 1848-55.

Specially important from the fact that it reproduces many documents the originals of which were lost in the burning of the parliament building at Montreal in 1849.

Dent, J. C. The Last Forty Years: Canada since the Union of 1841. 2 vols. Toronto, [1881].

Journalistic but useful.

Garneau, F.-X. Histoire du Canada. 5^e édition, revue, annotée et publiée, avec une introduction et des appendices, par son petit-fils Hector Garneau. Préface de M. Gabriel Hanotaux. 2 vols. Paris, 1913-20.

Garneau is still looked upon by French-Canadians as their chief national historian. His history, which carries the story to the union of the two Canadas, first appeared in the 'forties in three volumes, and went through three editions in French in the life-time of the author and three editions of an English translation of the third French edition by Andrew Bell. The fourth edition, by the author's son, contained a biographical sketch of the historian. In the fifth edition the usefulness of the work to students has been greatly increased by the addition of specific details, notes, and appendices.

Kingsford, W. History of Canada. 10 vols. London, 1887-98.

Painstaking and useful. Carries the story to the union of the two Canadas.

Parkman, F. France and England in North America. 9 vols. Boston, various dates, with which should also be included the Conspiracy of Pontiac, 2 vols.

The several volumes are cited by their respective titles in the lists of reading references in this book. Though subject to revision in certain details Parkman's work is still unsurpassed in its field for scholarship and graphic presentation.

Sulte, B. Histoire des Canadiens Français, 1608-1880. Origine, histoire, religion, guerres, decouvertes, colonisation, coutumes, vie domestique, sociale et politique, développement, avenir. 8 vols. Montreal, 1882-84.

D. GUIDES, HANDBOOKS, AND CHRONOLOGICAL WORKS

Burpee, L. J. and Doughty, A. G. Index and Dictionary of Canadian History. (Vol. XXI in Makers of Canada. Toronto, 1911.)

Canada and Its Provinces, vol. XXIII, Index. Toronto, 1917. Both these volumes are much more than indexes to the series in which they are published. They are convenient desk manuals even when used independently of the sets to which they belong.

Audet, F. J. Canadian Historical Dates and Events. Ottawa, 1917.

Johnson, G. Alphabet of First Things in Canada: a Ready Reference Book of Canadian Events. 3d ed. Ottawa, 1897.

McCord, F. A. The Hand Book of Canadian Dates. Montreal, 1888.

Taylor, J. P. The Cardinal Facts of Canadian History. Toronto, 1899.

Coté, J. O. (Notary public and clerk in the Executive Council Office), ed. Political Appointments and Elections in the Province of Canada from 1841 to 1865. 2d ed., enlarged. Ottawa, 1866.

Coté, N. O. (of the Department of the Interior), ed. Political Appointments, Parliament, and the Judicial Bench in the Dominion of Canada, 1867 to 1895. Ottawa, 1896.

————— Political Appointments, Parliaments, and the Judicial Bench in the Dominion of Canada, 1896 to 1917. Ottawa, 1917.

E. GENERAL BIOGRAPHICAL WORKS

Bibaud, M. Le pantheon canadien: choix de biographies. Nouvelle édition, revue, augmentée et complétée jusqu'à ce jour par Adèle et Victoria Bibaud, nièces de l'auteur. Montreal, 1891.

Canadian Parliamentary Guide. Ottawa.

Edited variously at different periods; 1908-24 by E. J. Chambers, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. Earlier numbers styled The Canadian Parliamentary Companion. Useful for data concerning members of the Dominion Parliament and provincial legislatures and other government officials, as well as elections, etc.

Canadian Who's Who. The Times, London, 1910.

Dent, J. C. The Canadian Portrait Gallery. 4 vols. Toronto, 1880-81.

Greene, B. M., ed. Who's Who in Canada: including the British Possessions in the Western Hemisphere . . . an Illustrated Biographical Record of Men and Women of the Time. Toronto, 1923-24: seventeenth year of issue.

Title and editor various for earlier years.

 - a. Drafting the measure
 - b. Securing its official acceptance in the provinces
 - c. Terms of the measure: separate identity of the two sections maintained; nature of their legislative union; the language question; silence concerning responsible government
 - d. Passage through the British Parliament
3. Municipal government established
 - a. For Lower Canada by a local government ordinance in Thomson's Special Council of L. C.
 - b. For Upper Canada by Municipal Act of 1841

B. THE WORKING OUT OF "RESPONSIBLE" OR TRUE "PARLIAMENTARY" GOVERNMENT* (1841-1849)

1. The technical meaning of "responsible government" as parliamentary government on the British model
2. Development of British policy (Russell, Grey)
3. The roles of the governors: Sydenham, Bagot, Metcalf, Elgin
4. Reform leadership of Baldwin and Lafontaine
5. The crisis of 1849
 - a. Rebellion Losses Bill
 - b. Burning of parliament building at Montreal

* "Responsible" is liable to be a misleading word when used in this special connection, for in a sense all governments are responsible to Crown or to people. "Parliamentary" is sometimes used in preference to it to denote this British type of executive responsibility through a cabinet responsible to an elected legislature. But "parliamentary" also is liable to be misleading, for in a loose sense all systems of government having elected legislative bodies are parliamentary. "Cabinet" is a word commonly employed even more loosely. There is, in fact, no term applicable to the British type of responsible, parliamentary, or cabinet government, which obviates the necessity of further precise definition.

c. Spread of settlement

2. Education

- a.* In Lower Canada: McGill University chartered (1821), opened (1843); Royal Charter to Laval University (1852)
- b.* In Upper Canada: Egerton Ryerson superintendent (1844-76); King's College chartered (1827), began work (1842), and as University of Toronto freed from religious control (1850 by act of 1849); establishment of new denominational colleges
- c.* The question of religious minorities: Separate School Acts (1841, 1853, 1855, 1863)

3. Transportation and communication

- a.* Canal system developed in '40's: St. Lawrence route; Ottawa and Richelieu Rivers
- b.* Railway era of '50's: Grand Trunk and Great Western built; railways and politics
- c.* Regular ocean steamship service established; Allan Line (1856); (cf. topic XVI, D, 4)
- d.* Postal facilities

F. INTERNAL POLITICS AFTER THE ESTABLISHMENT OF RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT

1. Legislation

- a.* Settlement of Clergy Reserves question (1854); revenues transferred to municipal purposes
- b.* Abolition of seigneurial tenure (1854)
- c.* Legislative Council made elective (1856)

2. The question of a capital

- a.* Kingston (1841-44)
- b.* Montreal (1844-49)
- c.* Quebec and Toronto alternately (1849-66)
- d.* Ottawa: selected (1857); seat of government (1866)

3. Party developments

- a.* Liberal Conservatives (John A. Macdonald, Georges Cartier)
- b.* Clear Grits (George Brown)
- c.* Rouges (A. A. Dorion)
- d.* English in Lower Canada (Galt)

4. Failure of the "double majority" principle and the development of deadlock
 - a. George Brown and "Rep. by Pop."
 - b. Deadlock in 1864

XVIII. THE FEDERATION MOVEMENT

A. HINDRANCES TO AN EARLIER BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN UNION

1. Population small and scattered
2. Poor communications
3. Backwardness of political development
4. Lack of the pressure of common tasks or common danger

B. CONDITIONS FAVOURABLE TO FEDERATION IN LATE '50'S AND EARLY '60'S

1. Railway situation
 - a. Railway building of '50's
 - b. Need of inter-provincial co-operation for further necessary building
 - c. Interest of British capitalists in promoting economic development of B.N.A. (Edward W. Watkin)
2. Problem of the North West and the Pacific Slope
 - a. Hudson's Bay Company's rule not satisfactory
 - b. Need of opening country to settlement and transit
 - c. Menace of advancing American settlement
3. Problem of trade
 - a. Fear of economic hostility of U.S.; dependence upon bonding privilege over U.S. railways
 - b. Desirability of intercolonial free trade if Reciprocity abrogated
4. Problem of defence
 - a. Fear of involvement in war with the U.S. through Anglo-American disputes
 - b. Fear of aggression by the expanding U.S. ("Manifest destiny")
 - c. Necessity of co-operation for defence
 - d. Problem made acute by American Civil War: talk of compensation for North by annexing Canada; "Trent" Affair; Confederate raids across border
 - e. Effect upon British as well as colonial attitude towards federation idea (Newcastle)

5. Internal politics of the provinces
 - a. Constitutional deadlock in Canada; problem of French Canada
 - b. The Maritime Provinces and the projected Maritime union
6. Development of the federation idea
 - a. Early proposals
 - b. The idea carried into practical politics by A. T. Galt (1858)
 - c. Numerous other advocates of and workers for the idea (e.g. Tupper, McGee, Morris, Hamilton, Fleming)

C THE WORKING OUT OF A FEDERATION SCHEME (1864)

1. Preliminaries
 - a. Arrangements for a conference on Maritime union
 - b. Formation of a coalition government in Canada (John A. Macdonald, Brown, Cartier, Galt, etc.); influence of Lord Monck
 - c. The Grand Trunk excursion and the promotion of inter-provincial good fellowship (McGee, Fleming, Tupper)
2. Charlottetown Conference (September)
 - a. Personnel; bi-partisan
 - b. Consideration of Maritime union
 - c. Reception of Canadian delegation proposing B.N.A. union
 - d. Informal discussion of B.N.A. union and agreement to continue discussion in later conference formally
 - e. Canadian Government to prepare scheme for consideration
 - f. Visit of the Canadian delegates to Maritime Province centers
3. Quebec Conference (October)
 - a. Personnel ("Fathers of Confederation")
 - b. Procedure; initiation of proposals by Canadian cabinet

4. General character of the scheme as framed
 - a. A centralized federation (Cf. United States); allocation of powers; financial terms
 - b. The federal parliament: House of Commons and Senate, their composition and relative powers
 - c. Responsible government in federation and provinces, illustrating strength of British tradition
 - d. The scheme as a solution for B.N.A.'s chief problems (Cf. above, B)

D. THE SCHEME PUSHED THROUGH TO ACCEPTANCE AND ENACTMENT (1867)

1. Acceptance by the Province of Canada (1865)
 - a. The great debate in the Canadian Legislature
 - b. Attitudes of various parties; support of R. C. Church in Lower Canada; influence of the Grand Trunk Railway
2. Difficulties in the Maritime Provinces
 - a. Development of opposition; its causes; importance of Howe's attitude
 - b. Defeat of federationists in N.B.; its peculiar importance
3. Opposition overcome in N.B. and N.S.
 - a. Leadership of Tupper and Tilley
 - b. Influence of British Government (A. H. Gordon, Sir Fenwick Williams)
 - c. Fear of the American menace accentuated by Fenian activities
 - d. Federationist victory in N.B.; N.S. assents to further discussion
4. Westminster Conference (1866-67)
 - a. Personnel: colonial and British
 - b. Quebec Resolutions made the basis of discussion
 - c. Minor changes in the scheme; choosing a name
5. British North America Act of 1867
 - a. Nature of the discussion in Parliament
 - b. In effect, by proclamation, 1 July, 1867

6. Unsuccessful repeal movement in Maritime Provinces
 - a. Attempt to secure repeal of B.N.A. Act
 - b. British refusal to recognize the movement as valid
 - c. Howe conciliated by John A. Macdonald's offer of "Better Terms"

E. ROUNDING OUT THE BOUNDARIES OF THE NEW DOMINION

1. Acquisition of the North West
 - a. Purchase of Hudson's Bay Company's rights (1869)
 - b. Red River insurrection (Riel, McDougall, Smith, Wolseley)
 - c. Rupert's Land and the North-Western Territory added to the Dominion and Manitoba made a province (1870)
 - d. Arctic Archipelago transferred to Canada by Great Britain (1880)
2. Entrance of British Columbia as a province (1871)
 - a. Negotiations for admission
 - b. Terms: railway connections with east within ten years
3. Entrance of Prince Edward Island as a province (1873)
 - a. The Dominion Government's fear lest island become a smuggling center
 - b. Terms: railway and communications with mainland; land
4. National significance of this early continental expansion
 - a. The Dominion assured a frontage on the Pacific
 - b. The development of the North West shouldered as a national task
 - c. The territorial basis secured for a new nationalism capable of absorbing the old provincialisms
5. Question of further expansion
 - a. Newfoundland: later negotiations; present situation
 - b. Bermuda and British West Indies

F. EXPRESSIONS OF AMERICAN ATTITUDE TOWARDS CANADIAN FEDERATION

1. Abrogation of Reciprocity (1865, effective 1866)

2. The Banks Bill, 1866; Minnesota ambitions and James W. Taylor
3. House Resolution of 27 March, 1867
4. Purchase of Alaska (1867)
5. Discussion connected with Treaty of Washington (1871): "Compensation" in Canada

G. NATIONAL AND IMPERIAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE MOVEMENT

1. The imperial relationship as established by Canadian federation
2. Importance of Canada as the pioneer federal dominion in the British Commonwealth
 - a. Federation a logical step in the development of full autonomy
 - b. Not necessarily a step towards severance of the British connection
3. Federation a counter-stroke to U.S. "Manifest destiny"

INDEX OF AUTHORS

The purpose of this index is to facilitate finding the most complete information supplied anywhere in this volume in regard to any work cited. Therefore for each work there is ordinarily only one occurrence entered, the first, or that giving the most information. The works of each author are entered by brief titles under his name. Sets containing individual works described in the references as belonging to them are indexed under the general titles of the sets as well as under the names of the editors. Learned societies, periodical publications, and works cited in the body of the book without an author's or editor's name are indexed by title.
